

C155AD.

Claudius PTOLEMY (Egypt)
completed his geography and atlas

C155

Easter Controversy

This was the dispute between the East and the West wherein the Asiatic bishops protested against the Roman custom of celebrating Easter on a Sunday, instead of on whatever day of the week the 14th Nisan might fall according to the old Jewish Cal. The dispute rose again in 325. It was finally settled with the 85-year cycle that was followed everywhere after the 9th Century.

155-166

11th Pope ST. ANICETUS
Syrca, martyr. St Polycarp came to Rome to confer with him about the time of the celebration of Easter

c155

The (METAMORPHOSES) Golden Ass Prose Romance c155; ~~at~~ only surviving Latin novel by Latin writer Lucius Apuleius (c114 - ?)

155 AD

ST. ANICETUS, POPE

C155 AD

St Polycarp, bishop of Smyrna and disciple of St. John the Evangelist was martyred.

AD C 155 - C. 230 DIO CASSIUS

Cassius Dio Cocceianus, a native of Bithynia and son of a Roman Senator, is the "Greek King".

He tells us that after retirement from a long public career which included the consulship, he devoted 10 yrs collecting data and 12 more yrs to composing his

"History of Rome" from legendary beginnings to AD 229. Vast work in 80 books

AD 155/160 — C 222/230

TER TULLIAN

Quintus Septimius Florens Tertullianus, the founder of Western Christian Theology and its first great personage in Latin Christianity was born in Carthage and after his conversion became a priest. Thirty-one works are extant.